inflation Jan 28 2020 inflation is a general increase in prices and fall in the purchasing value of money. It is distinguished from price inflation by the fact that it is a general increase in prices and not just a few items. Inflation is measured as the percentage change in the price level over time. The price level is a weighted average of the prices of all the goods and services in the economy. The price level is measured by the consumer price index (CPI) and the producer price index (PPI). Inflation is caused by an increase in the money supply, an increase in aggregate demand, or a decrease in aggregate supply.
