Mississippi River Corridor Study: Inventory of resources and significance Jun 05 2020 In recognition of the Mississippi River's importance to the nation, Congress passed legislation in 1990 that established the Mississippi River Corridor Study Commission. Congress directed the commission to undertake a study to determine the feasibility of designating the river as a national heritage corridor. Congress also charged the commission with recommending methods for preserving and enhancing the unique natural, recreational, scenic, cultural, scientific, and economic resources of the corridor.

Recreational Boating Study of the Mississippi River, Pools 4 to 9, Summer 2003 Jul 19 2021 This study examines the River as a recreation setting. It focuses on recreational boating, which includes fishing from a boat. The broad intent of the study was to collect the information needed to more effectively understand and manage the River for recreational boating. The study was designed to answer a wide variety of questions, from the amount and origin of boating, to the experiences boaters had on the water, to safety concerns of boaters, to facility preferences and future needs of boaters.
