The 11th North Carolina Infantry in the Civil War 10 2020 This history of the 11th North Carolina Infantry in the Civil War—civilian soldiers and their families—follows the regiment from their 1861 mustering-in to their surrender at Appomattox, covering action at Gettysburg, Bristoe Station, The Wilderness, Spotsylvania, Cold Springs, Petersburg. Drawing on letters, journals, memoirs, official reports, personnel records and family histories, this intensely personal account features Tar Heels' real-life experiences through over 1,500 quoted passages. Casualty lists give the names of those killed, wounded, captured in action and died of disease. Rosters list regiments and staff, enlistees for all 10 companies and the names of the 78 men who stacked arms on April 9, 1865.

Multi-Level Governance and Northern Ireland 28 2019 This book examines the governance arrangements in Northern Ireland through a multi-level lens, particularly the period since the new institutions established through the 1998 Agreement became more firmly embedded.

The Politics of Compulsive Education 01 2020 The marketised and securitised shaping of formal education sites in terms of risk prevention strategies have transformed what it means to be a learner and a citizen. In this book, Karl Kitching explores racialised dimensions to suggest how individuals and collectives are increasingly responsible for their own welfare as 'good' or 'bad' students, at the expense of the protection of their rights as learner-citizens. Focusing on Ireland as a post-colonial Atlantic state, the book demonstrates how liberal governance, racisms, migration and mass education are interconnected and struggled over at local, national, and global levels. Using a variety of qualitative studies and analytic approaches, The Politics of Compulsive Education details the significance of mass education(s) to the racialisation of national sovereignty. It draws on in-depth historical, policy, media and school-based research, moving from the 19th century to the present day. It explores diverse themes such as student deportation, austerity and the politics of community 'integration', the depoliticisation of third level education via internationalisation and 'quality' teacher regimes, the racialised distribution of learner 'ability', and school-based bullying and harassment. Combined, these studies demonstrate the possibilities and constraints that exist for educational anti-racisms both in terms of social movements and everyday classroom situations. The Politics of Compulsive Education asks questions about anti-racist responsibility across multiple education sites and explores how racisms are both shaped, and can be interrupted, by the interaction of the local, as seen in terms of migration, the distribution of capital, media, education policy discourse, and teacher and learner identifications. It will be of interest to researchers, academics and postgraduate students of sociology, education, cultural studies, political theory, philosophy and postcolonial studies.

Free Trade and Social Conflict in Colombia, Peru and Venezuela 05 2021 Foreign capital and free trade policies have provoked fierce conflicts in South America in recent years. People in Colombia and Peru engaged in often violent clashes to defend their livelihoods against the encroachments of the free market and the impact of Wall Street. Farmers organized to save their lands from foreign mining corporations, and cities fought to save their water from contamination. Native Americans organized highways to preserve ancestral lands, while students paralyzed universities and called for reforms to higher education. The shift toward socialism in Venezuela, led by President Hugo Chávez, was bitterly opposed by privileged groups. Governments tried to quell the turmoil through repression, political maneuvering and propaganda. This book provides a dramatic account of the struggles.

Security and Conflict in East Asia 30 2019 Security and Conflict in East Asia provides a timely and comprehensive analysis of the sources and implications of conflict on the Korean peninsula and in the People's Republic of China and Japan, the three biggest economies in the world. This analysis provides the building blocks for effective solutions to manage these tensions more effectively, and is a vital resource to those seeking a clearer understanding of conflict in the most pivotal region in the world. In the context of increasingly tense China-US strategic rivalry, the ever-present potential for conflict on the Korean peninsula and over Taiwan, the absence of effective international institutions and regimes, the emerging arms race in the region, the rise in nationalism and the absence of crisis management mechanisms, there are many good reasons why the high potential exists for miscalculation and misperception sparking a regional conflict. Given the presence of nuclear-armed powers in East Asia, namely, China, the USA, and the USA, it is also possible that any regional conflict could escalate into a nuclear conflict involving the world's three largest economies: the USA, China, and Japan. The security of, and any conflict in, East Asia thus has tremendous implications for global security. The Handbook is divided into four parts. The introductory section includes chapters which set the context, explain the history of international relations in East Asia and examine the phenomenon of regional arms race. The second section is made up of a series of chapters focusing on China, examining China's military modernization, its relationship with the USA and the various territorial disputes in which it has been involved. The third section focuses on Japan and North and South Korea, looking at the security challenges facing Japan and the Korean peninsula. A fourth section examines the future role of China and the USA in East Asia, as well as the prospects for managing security in the region. The contributing authors are experts in their respective fields, and all share an abiding concern over developments in East Asia. Their contributions aim to assist in a better understanding of the issues and possible solutions, and draw attention to the need for diplomacy, confidence-building measures, crisis management mechanisms and other measures to prevent conflict. This volume will be of use to government institutions involved in foreign policy, intelligence and defence, reference libraries, universities, research institutes, and non-governmental organisations. It will also appeal to analysts, researchers, journalists, policy advisers, students, academics and the general reader. Scholarly analysis is essential to catch up and currently there are no other comprehensive works examining conflict in East Asia in the context of the current tensions.

Handbook of Research on Business Angels 01 2021 Business angels are recognized as playing a key role in financing the start-up and early stages of new ventures. However, our knowledge of how business angels operate remains limited and highly fragmented. This Handbook provides a synthesis of research on business angels from an international perspective to reflect the spread of angel investing around the world. The increasing number of government initiatives to promote angel investing is reflected in the book with an assessment of the most common support schemes. Adopting an international focus, the expert group of contributors examine business angels themselves, the evolution of the market, the various stages of the investment process and the role of public policy in influencing angel investment. They each contribute chapters with an agenda for future market research on business angels. Students and scholars of entrepreneurship, entrepreneurial finance and related subjects will find this to be an invaluable resource for their work. In particular, they will benefit from the research agendas that conclude each chapter. This Handbook will also be of interest to makers and other practitioners looking to enhance their understanding of the design and need for such interventions.

Producing Women 05 2020 Producing Women examines the ways femininity is produced through new media. Michele White considers how women are constantly producing themselves as subjects, form vital production cultures on sites like Etsy, and deploy technological processes to reshape their identities and digital characters.

studies the means through which women market traditional female roles, are viewed, and produce and restructure their gendered, raced, eroticized, and sexual image. Incorporating a range of examples across numerous forms of media—including trash the dress wedding photography, Internet how-to instructions about zombie nail polish blogging, DIY crafting, and reborn doll production—Producing Women elucidates women's production cultures online, and the ways that individuals can study and engage with these practices.

A Critical Public Relations Approach to Crisis Communication and Management Aug 20 2021 This book proposes a critical public relations approach to analyzing crisis communication with Malaysia Airlines flight 370 (MH370) disappearance (2014-2018) as a case study. It examines the discursive process of Malaysia's crisis response, image building, tracing Malaysia Airlines during the immediate response and the Malaysian establishment until the official suspension of the underwater search. It features a critical discourse analysis of 84 national media texts and 85 response statements, focusing on three aspects: the national media representations of the image, the national carrier and the government's rhetorical strategies of delivering stances and actions, and the dynamic process of image reconstruction and national recovery. The present project contributes to the current research area by integrating both linguistic and public relations perspectives, and more importantly, by the ideological impact instead of merely behavioral effectiveness in modern communication research. Target readers may find their interest in corporate crisis communication, critical inquiry about political public relations, and the MH370 incident in general.

Russia's Border Wars and Frozen Conflicts Dec 12 2020 This book examines the origins and execution of Russian military and political activities in Moldova, Georgia, Ukraine, and Azerbaijan. Using a realist perspective, the author concludes that there are substantial similarities in the four case studies: Russian support for minority separatist movements, conflict, Russian intervention as peacekeepers, Russian control over the diplomatic process to prevent resolution of the conflict, and a persistent Russian presence in the area. The author places the conflicts in the context of international law and nationalism theory.

Micro and Nano Fabrication Jul 27 2019 For Microelectromechanical Systems (MEMS) and Nanoelectromechanical Systems (NEMS) production, each product requires a unique process technology. This book provides a comprehensive insight into the tools necessary for fabricating MEMS/NEMS and the process technologies applied. It describes enabling technologies which are necessary for a successful production, i.e., wafer planarization and bonding, as well as contamination control.

The Tim Carmody Affair Jan 31 2020 When Tim Carmody was appointed Chief Justice of Queensland by Premier Campbell Newman in 2014, he had been Chief Minister for only nine months. It proved to be the most controversial judicial appointment in Australia's history. Carmody's elevation plunged the Supreme Court and the legal profession into a bitter conflict with the government and with Carmody himself. How did he come to be appointed to such a significant position? What can we learn from the saga about the fragile relationships between politics and the courts? The Tim Carmody Affair places the full story of Carmody's damaging and divisive tenure in Queensland in context, and identifies key reforms that could prevent this kind of controversy in the future. 'A spellbinding and alarming account of one of Australia's great judicial dramas that will shake the legal profession and the courts. The Newman Government's appointment of Tim Carmody as Queensland's Chief Justice is a story of patronage, betrayal, leadership and political folly. Brilliant and revealing.' — Richard Ackland

International Investment Management Oct 10 2020 International Investment Management: Theory, Practice, and Ethics synthesizes investment principles, Asian financial practice, and ethics reflecting the realities of modern international finance. These topics are studied within the Asian context, first through the medium of case studies, then via the particular conditions common in those markets including issues of religion and philosophy. This book has a three part structure beginning with the principles behind the business of investments including securities analysis, asset allocation and a comprehensive analysis of modern finance theory. This gives students a comprehensive understanding of investment management by going through the theories, ethics and practice of investment management. This text provides a detailed overview of International Banking Law and International Securities Regulation, alongside legal and ethics case studies which are located in the practice section of the book. It is an essential text for business and law school students who wish to have a thorough understanding of investment management. It is also perfect as a core text for undergraduate finance majors and graduate business students pursuing a finance, and/or business ethics concentration, with particular focus on Asia.

Handbook of Space Law Jun 25 2019 The Handbook of Space Law addresses the legal and regulatory aspects of activities in outer space and major space applications from a comprehensive and structured perspective. It fundamentally addresses the dichotomy between the state-oriented character of space law and the non-state-oriented character of space law.

The Syrian Jihad Jun 29 2022 The eruption of the anti-Assad revolution in Syria has had many unintended consequences, among which is the opportunity it offered jihadist groups to establish a foothold in the heart of the Middle East. That Syria's ongoing civil war is so brutal and protracted has only compounded the situation, as developments in Iraq and Lebanon. Ranging across the battlefields and international borders have been dozens of jihadi Islamist fighting groups, of which some have become into significant factions such as Jabhat al Nusra and the Islamic State. This book assesses and explains the emergence since 2011 of Sunni jihadist organizations, from fledgling insurgency, charts their evolution and situates them within the global Islamist project. Unprecedented numbers of foreign fighters have joined such groups, and almost certainly continue to host them. Thus, external factors in their emergence are scrutinized, including the strategic and tactical lessons learned from other conflict zones and the complex interplay between Al-Qaeda and the Islamic State and how it has influenced the jihadist sphere in Syria. Tensions between and cooperation between such groups also feature in this indispensable volume.

Intellectual Property and Genetically Modified Organisms Feb 23 2022 Taking a global viewpoint, this volume addresses issues arising from recent developments in the field of genetic engineering and topical debates over Genetically Modified Organisms (GMOs) and their relationship to Intellectual Property (IP). The work examines changing responses to the growing acceptance and prevalence of GMOs. Drawing together perspectives from several of the leading international scholars in this area, the contributions set the context away from analysis of safety and regulation and examine the diversity of ways the law and GMOs have become entangled. This collection presents the start of a new engagement with GMOs and law. As GMO technology becomes increasingly more complex and embedded in our lives, this volume will be a useful resource in leading discussion and debate about GMOs in academia, in government and among those working on future policy.

Urban Planning in Lusophone African Countries Mar 03 2020 Urban planning on the five Lusophone African countries - Angola, Cape Verde, Guinea-Bissau, Mozambique and Sao Tome and Principe - has so far been relatively overlooked in planning literature. Bringing together a team of leading scholars, this book fills the gap by providing an in-depth analysis of key issues in the history of urban planning and discussing the key challenges confronting contemporary urban planning in these countries. The book argues that urban planning is a non-neutral and non-value free kind of public action and, therefore, ideology, planning theories, urban models and the ideological framework of urban planning has played are some of the key issues addressed. For that reason, the practice of Urban Planning is also seen as the outcome of a complex interrelationship between structure and agency, with the role of key planners being examined in some of the chapters. The findings and insights presented by the contributing authors contribute to research on urban planning in the colonial and postcolonial periods in Lusophone African countries and at the same time break fresh ground and offer additional evidence that has been collected from archives and in fieldwork carried out by a new generation of researchers. In addition, it outlines possible directions for future research.

The European Parliament and its International Relations 2022 Following the Lisbon Treaty, the powers of the European Parliament in external relations have gradually expanded and it is increasingly influencing the foreign policy of the European Union. This book analyses the role of the European Parliament as an international actor and presents a new debate about its role outside the EU territory. It explores different policy areas including human rights, international aid, trade, crisis management and the environment to provide a systematic analysis of the modern global role of the European Parliament. The book also considers the European Parliament's interactions with Africa, Latin America, the United States, Asia and the Middle East. With a common analytical framework and research covering the lifespan of the European Parliament from its first direct elections in 1979 to the present day, this comprehensive volume presents an unparalleled analysis of one of the most important institutions in the European Union. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of European Union politics and institutions, European policy, government and international relations and European history.

Newcomers No More? Contemporary NATO and the Future of the Enlargement from the Perspective of "Post-Cold War" 2022 The central aims of the book is to present, in the form of a collection of papers, a variety of views on NATO from member states "formerly known as new", and to assess in this context the role for NATO enlargement. Therefore, the book consists of two parts. The main objective of the first part is to present how NATO is now perceived in Central and Eastern Europe. Papers collected here offer an opportunity to reflect on the impact of the enlargements starting from 1999 on NATO functioning and evolution, roles, tasks and capabilities. The issue of how accession has transformed accessioning states will also be discussed. Last but not least, the perspective of "new" members on NATO will be presented. The authors of the articles in this part mainly come from those countries that joined the Alliance after the end of the Cold War. The second part is strictly to the topic of enlargement. In this part we asked experts from NATO members (both "old" and "new"), potential candidates and other NATO partners (including Russia, Georgia, Ukraine, Azerbaijan, Sweden, Finland etc.) how they view the future of NATO cooperation with external partners in Europe and the prospects for enlargement of the Alliance.

Afghanistan Post-2021 2022 Owing to its geo-strategic location and mineral wealth, Afghanistan has acquired significance in the inter-state politics of Asia and world politics during the past decades. This book outlines Afghanistan's efforts to build a stable and peaceful democratic polity, with external military support from the United States and its NATO allies. It also analyses the nation's development initiatives with major powers such as India, the United States, Russia and Germany. The volume brings to the fore ongoing tensions within the Afghan polity and its continued impact on Asian/world politics; • discusses topical themes such as withdrawal of US troops, non-traditional security; and • presents perspectives from scholars and experts from around the world, including Afghans. This work will be useful to scholars and researchers in political science, international relations, sociology, area studies, and the interested general reader.

Targeting: The Challenges of Modern Warfare 2021 This book offers a multidisciplinary treatment of targeting. It is intended for use by the military, government, legal advisers and academics. The book is suitable for use in both military training and educational programs and in Bachelor and Master degree level courses on topics such as War Studies and Strategic Studies. The book first explores the context of targeting, its evolution and the current targeting process and characteristics. An overview of legal and ethical constraints on targeting as an operational process follows. It concludes by surveying contemporary issues in targeting such as the potential of autonomous weapon systems, 'non-kinetic' targeting, targeting in multinational military operations and leadership decapitation in counter-terrorism operations. The practical experience and academic background of the contributors ensures comprehensive treatment of current targeting and use of force issues. The Return of the Cold War 2021 This book examines the crisis in Ukraine, tracing its development and analysing the factors which lie behind it. It discusses how all how the two sides have engaged in political posturing, accusations, escalating sanctions and further escalating threats, arguing that the ease with which both sides reverted to a Cold War mentality demonstrates that the Cold War belief systems never really disappeared, and that the hopes raised in the aftermath of the collapse of the Soviet Union for a new era in East-West relations were misplaced. The book pays special attention to the often ignored origins of the crisis within Ukraine itself and the permanent damage caused by the fact that Ukrainians are killing Ukrainians in the eastern parts of the country. It also assesses why Cold War belief systems have not disappeared so easily, and concludes by considering the likely long-term ramifications of the crisis, arguing that the deep-rooted lack of trust makes the possibility of compromise harder than in the original Cold War.

Recent Trends in Materials and Devices 2022 This book presents the proceedings of the International Conference on Recent Trends in Materials and Devices (ICRTMD 2019) held in India. It brings together academicians, scientists and industrialists from various fields for the establishment of enduring connections to solve common global challenges across a number of disciplines. The conference provides a platform to tackle complex problems from a range of perspectives, thereby promoting an integrated, solution-focused thinking and partnerships.

Honouring a Nation Dec 24 2021 The first detailed history of imperial and national honours in Australia, Honouring a Nation tells the story of the honours system's transformation from instrument of imperial unity to national institution. From the extension of British honours to colonial Australasia in the nineteenth century, to Tony Abbott's revival of knighthoods in the twenty-first, this book explains how the system has worked, traces the arguments of its supporters and critics, and identifies those who received awards and those who declined them. Honouring a Nation brings to life a long history of debate over honours, including wrangles over State honours imbalances in honours lists, and the emergence and hardening of the Labor/Liberal divide over British awards, illuminating issues that are still part of Australian honours—the honours system—today. The history of the honours system is equally the history of the nation, revealing who Australians were, what they have become, what they value, and the things that have unified and divided them. 'National honours are a fraught recognition of merit. They beg many questions: who decides, why some people are honoured and others ignored. Honours provide a window to the soul of the nation and invite us to consider who we really are and what we value. These are big issues to grapple with. Karen Fox provides many of the answers in this timely, lively and important book.' — Julianne Schultz AM FAHA, Emeritus Professor Media and Culture, Griffith University
'Karen Fox has a gong: for distinguished service to Australian culture in recognition of her authoritative yet entertaining account of how a supposedly egalitarian country embraced knighthoods, OAs and other baubles.' — Richard White, Associate Professor at the University of Sydney and author of Inventing Australia 'Karen Fox has an intelligent, incisive and intriguing account of how Australians have acknowledged and elevated their fellow citizens, from the founding of the first colony to the present day ... a work packed with insights about the ever-shifting determinants of social hierarchy, individual merit and public esteem ... a thoroughly stimulating read.' — Michael Head of the Saxo Institute, University of Copenhagen 'At last, a definitive account of the Australian honours system, from the First Fleet to 2021. Honours serve to unite and divide. Through which to view imperial strategies, federal rivalries and partisan, class-based and gender politics, with many scandals and controversies along the way. Karen Fox gives us a book that is both topical and compelling on evolving national identity and honours as a symbol of exclusion or inclusion.' — Marian Sawyer AO, Emeritus Professor, The Australian National University
