Jacob finds he is faced with a struggling faith, and the realization that sometimes evil runs in the family. FROM THE AUTHOR Dark Mountain was my first novel. I initially wrote it in thirty days during NaNoWriMo in 2009. I have always been a fan of horror novels by authors like Stephen King and Anne Rice. I dreamed of writing a story that took the legend of vampires in a different direction. My original inspiration for Dark Mountain was the idea of survival. The title is actually borrowed from an environmental movement of the same name. I traveled around Arkansas and was struck by how dark it was at night. This led me to imagine this beautiful and rugged state as the perfect setting for a novel about survival, the depravity of humankind, and the redemption of an individual. Dark Mountain is at its core a novel of horror, but it is also about hope and the importance and power of family.

contemporary and historic images. In 1923, International Harvester revolutionized the tractor world by conceiving the Farmall brand, a revolutionary new line of all-purpose tractors designed for small- to medium-sized farms. Eventually offering an array of engine and equipment options, by the 1930s Farmalls were bestowed with letters as their model names, from the compact A, B, and C models to the larger H and M tractors. Fittingly known as the "Letter Series," the tractors were even given a streamlined design by famed industrial designer Raymond Loewy. Not surprisingly, they went on to become some of the most widely produced and best-selling American farm tractors of all time, to be followed beginning in 1954 with the numbered Hundred Series models. By 1947, Farmall had built over 1 million tractors. Amazingly, many are still in use today, not just as collector vehicles, but often as working farm tractors. In The Complete Book of Farmall Tractors, tractor historian Robert Pripps
