Poèmes de guerre Jan 27 2020 Mué en poète par l'échec de sa prose, semble-t-il, Melville, après neuf ans de silence, chante la guerre civile qu'il vient de vivre. "Les aspects que la lutte revêt dans la mémoire, écrit-il, sont aussi divers que les humeurs de la méditation involontaire... Je n'ai fait, dirait-on, que placer une harpe à la fenêtre et noter les airs contrastés que les vents capricieux jouaient sur les cordes". Conscient de la diversité comme de l'allure dialectique de son épée, il la sait aussi quasi théologique. Pour lui, il s'est produit "une nouvelle chute de l'Homme", suivie, "dans le silence du Ciel", d'un conflit entre les Anges de ténèbres et les Anges de lumière. Mais que savons-nous des voies de Dieu et des voies de l'Adversaire ? Et, au niveau du choix individuel, le "devoir" qui nous appelle au sacrifice ne risque-t-il pas d'être "le masque de Caïn" ?

Power Failure Jul 25 2022 The inside story of a wicked problem ... What should Australia do about climate change? A succession of leaders has tried to answer this question – and come unstuck. Politicians and public servants call it a “wicked” problem – one highly resistant to solution – and many approaches have been developed and discarded by the major parties. Some believe Australia’s dependence on coal makes effective action impossible. In this book, award-winning journalist Philip Chubb examines the tenacity of fossil-fuel interests and their allies in business, politics and the media when their power is challenged. He reveals and analyses the political strategies of prime ministers Kevin Rudd and Julia Gillard as they tried to overcome the obstacles created by Australia’s carbon-intensive economy. This is a dramatic study of leadership replete with new revelations. Using more than 75 interviews with key figures (including Julia Gillard, Kevin Rudd, Wayne Swan, Greg Combet and Penny Wong), freedom-of-information requests and good old-fashioned leaks, Chubb gives a persuasive account of success and failure in climate policy, and of the strategies that leaders must use in future.
